INDIA

INTRODUCTION

The Republic of India, a subcontinent which juts southward from the mainland of Asia, has an area of 1,269,219 sq. miles. It has a population of 1,210,193,422 as of 2011. The capital is New Delhi. The economy is based upon agriculture.

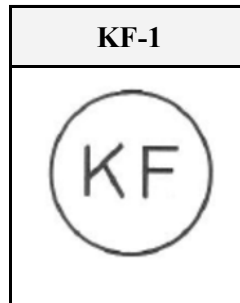

While India has one of the world's largest populations. The use of guns and ammunition seems to have been the pleasure of the rich. Due to its relationship with England up to 1948, almost all of the .22s used were imported from that country. However there was one arsenal that produced .22s, probably for the military.

AMMUNITION FACTORY-KIRKEE. Located at Kirkee, Poona, this plant has produced .22s in the post World War II period. Dates of operations are not known at this time. Boxes from this plant are difficult to obtain in the U.S.A.
