Map and flag from Wikipedia.org
The Russian Federation (Russia), until 1991 known as the U.S.S.R., occupies the northern part of Asia and the eastern half of Europe. It has an area of 6,592,800 sq. miles and has a population of 143.3 million people as of 2012. The capital is Moscow. Its main industries include exports, machinery, iron and steel, crude oil, timber and nonferrous metals.

Due to Russia being a closed country, data on who produced .22s and when they were produced is almost unknown in the U.S.A. Yet in the last 20 years, they seem to have become not only a major manufacturer, but also an exporter of .22s. Their .22s have done very well in international competition.

NIIS OAKH. This is the scientific research station and proving grounds of the central council of Oscaviakhim and was located near Kuskovo, south of Moscow. From 1927, NIIS OAKH was engaged in improving combat and small arms ammunition, which included .22s rim fire. .22s were probably produced here from 1927 to at least 1941, with one box dated 1950 with the same appearances of the prewar production. Components were probably produced by the Tula arsenal.

MISC. ISSUES. During the 1950s, Russia has become a major producer of .22s, but who produced them is unknown at this time. It may be that these are produced by government arsenals.
